

Trafford Hall is pleased to announce DCLG has awarded the National Communities Resource Centre £535,000 to deliver training and support to empower tenants to set up groups to lead on the management of their social housing. The training will focus on developing their skills and confidence to take positive local action to tackle problems that arise in their area.

PRESS RELEASE

Sally Wyatt, Chief Executive Trafford Hall, said:

"The National Communities Resource Centre is committed to helping tenants play a lead role in the decisions that affect their communities and we are delighted at this news. The funding will allow us to offer many more tenants the opportunity to get the training and support they need to tackle some of problems that plague their communities and make a real difference at local level."

"The goals we have set will produce meaningful outcomes and assist in developing communities to make a real difference. We will be working closely with the Open College Network London to accredit all our courses. We are convinced that gaining a formal qualification will greatly benefit the people who attend our courses. This qualification can lead to greater confidence and motivation to train for further qualifications and better chances of employment"

Professor Daniel Khan, OBE Chief Executive of Open College Network London Region said:

"We are really excited about working with the National Communities Resource Centre they have an excellent reputation for delivering outcomes for tenants and delegates on their courses. We are delighted that DCLG have awarded them the funding and look forward to this new exciting chapter."

If you would like to learn more about the National Communities Resource Centre does and how you could help please visit www.traffordhall.com or contact Jon Findlay on 01244 300246

j.findlay@traffordhall.com